

May 1968.

Greetings, Lizards. This was written last Thursday which was, as you know, a beautiful day. The day before was a cow of a day. I am unable to prophecy whether today will be like Wednesday or Thursday.

A normal club event today with holes 4th and 10th for nearest the pin.

CAPTAIN HANDICAPPER'S REPORT.

Last month's winner, Arthur Levy, has a lot to explain; namely, how in March off 26 handicap he knocks up 31 points and in April off the same 26 handicap he storms home with 45 points.

How do you handicap that sort of form?

If George Russell could hit a golf ball with the same skill that he can pull four oranges across the middle of a poker machine he would be playing Plus 2.

Only two meetings to go and the Club Points Championship is still wide open as is the Eclectic Competition. Don't forget attendance is a major factor in both competitions.

Verbal abuse of the handicapper has decreased considerably over the last couple of months. Even Gordon Ball wished him a pleasant good evening the other night and it took three schooners to bring him round.

However, Eric MacMeechan never fails to let him know that there is some doubt about his legitimacy.

ANNUAL MEETING.

This has been fixed for Thursday, 11th July. The meeting will start at 6.30p.m. with dinner to follow at 8.0p.m.

It is to be hoped that the Garrulous Gerties among you will button up for a change, otherwise we might miss out on dinner and that would be a shame in view of the extra special menu being provided.

Last month's winner of the Alastair Campbell - Jock Ross Trophy were Norm Black and John Tilley with a combined score of 81. The winner of the club trophy was Arthur Levy on 45.

It was noticed that John was seen to sneak away early. He probably feared he might have to share his bottle.

Apologies have been received from H.R.H. P.P. for being unable to attend today; he had to leave for Canberra. He offered the suggestion that certain Lizards should take the finger out.

Matt. Little has made the suggestion that name badges be bought for members. He pointed out the normal price was 75c. but that he could get them for certain groups, such as old folks and for mentally retarded organisations for 50c. He is sure the Lizards would qualify.

Complaints were made last month that Caterer, Peter Allen, forget the salt. It is suggested that in future he be called "Salty", as a reminder to him.

Last month's meeting ended unusually early. Lance Try went straight home. His wife was so concerned that she packed him off to bed with a glass of milk and two aspres.
