

✓ Flat Out like for February 70.

Greetings to lizards & welcome to lizarders.

As usual it will be a very fine day, because as you know it ~~never rains~~ on Lizards Day.

But just in case I hope you have brought your wet suit with you.

Today's event. This will be the Les Garlick Presidents Trophy.

It is understood that this invaluable prize will consist of 1 dozen ~~lizard~~ glasses with lizard motif & 2 sets of matching cuff links & tie sets.

It will be quite safe to use the glasses if you take care to drink out of the unchipped sides & also the cufflink sets, from which the lizards have fallen off, can easily be ~~repaired~~ repaired with a little Araldite.

Nearest the pins Your Editor, has in the past, been castigating our very worthy Pres Les for always choosing the 1st & 17th. Your very good Editor has learnt recently that this is the prerogative of the C.H.

I apologise to you, Pres Les.

However there's a happy outcome to this, because our CH has been imbued with a rare sense of adventure.

He has decreed that the nearest the pins will be the 1st & 17th. Last months results.

Les Garlick Trophy Winner. JIM HOWE (CAPITALS) 49 off 144

Lizards Trophy Winner. JIM HOWE 49 off 144

(It's a pity this machine has no capital capitals).

Second John Kennedy 44 off 18

Third Gordon Donald 41 off 9.

Visitors N Bentley 40 off 30

Nearest the Pins 1st John Tilley.

17th Gordon Donald.

Dave Trepharne

Les Garlick Trophy LES GARLICK. 23 off 5.

Aries No list will be published because ~~it~~ got trapped in a gully, on the rum & orange hole.

Editorial ^{Comment} ~~Not~~ No. 1. It is understood that last months ^{most excellent} winner will be docked 14 strokes. Finally 13 strokes because this his Honour, the Editor, was the number of points he got over 36, & then an additional one for winning. Now we agree on the one for winning, but when it's realized that he was tee up all round, with consequent advantage to ~~the outright victor~~ ^{the outright victor} you will agree that our popular hero, winner of last month, is being unfairly treated by our lousy C.H.

Up our hero and down with the Captain Handicapper
Editorial Comment No 2. ~~over~~ (or vice versa, in a certain context)

Still hit a ball up in the air
Where it lands I know not where
Where it lands I do not care
Except on Griffos fair & bloody square

When it lands it'll make a hole
Right in Griffos' bloody thick skull
At Post mortem they'll examine remains
And the docs will all cry, "why he had no brains"

So make allowances all youse mob
He's trying like mad to do a good job
Remember the deficiencies of ~~your old~~ ^{our} ~~Bob~~ Slob
Keep on remembering he's ~~not~~ ^{not} brainless Slob Bob

Points of interest. Off the run & orange tee, Ron Hathaway landed up in the rough. Ron addressed the ball & on his backswing the ball merrily trickled down between his legs. Ron uttered, it immediately caused ~~a bald patch~~ ^{the public} ~~of Slob~~ ^{decent} ~~reaction~~ such an occurrence, but does this count as a stroke?

Our hero, the winner last month, was presented his trophy & was forcefully told to offer it by the donor, Johnny Altus. He did so, and found a box of Dunlop 65s. He gleefully told the donor & the bystanders that it was just what he wanted. On being pressed to open the box, he found the scummiest dozen balls you ever saw.

He was then presented with the real trophy, which was a beautiful set of steak knife ~~of~~ ^{and} decorated plates.

Our hero duly took his well won trophy home and laid it at his wife's feet.

He was brought down to earth by his wife, icily pointing out that in her house knives AND Forks were used.

John to get me off the hook, how about some nice steak forks. BB

My father ~~to~~ hit a tremendous ball off the 2nd. It landed 3 fairways away. Of course our hero, winner of last month, landed well & truly on the right fairway.

Perc Campbell who ~~is~~ as some of you may know, is President of our offshoot club, the Civic, has ~~threatened~~ ^{insisted} to play with us today.

Of course we've had these threats before, but heyards, if he does play, please don't laugh at his very peculiar way with a golf stick, because if you dig deep enough you'll find he's a ~~very~~ ^{rather} nice bloke - considering.

Golf Hint. The secret of good putting is practice, then more practice.

So if you get on the green in one, then hole out in seven, don't ~~do~~ ^{complain} ~~your~~ ~~block~~, ~~because~~ ^{after all} you are getting your very necessary putting practice.

HARRY GOH FING Hyards & Hycton. Don't worry if you have an airy because if you do it ~~again~~, you'll have a bag, bag, without hero & winner of last month. THE KING OF THE AIRIES; who, even the most dumb of you dim witted mob, will have realized by now, won last month with 49 points.

P.S. You may think that too much stress has been laid on our hero, winner of last month. But your Ed considers, & ~~cost~~ wisely, that the opportunity is too good to be missed.

The purists amongst you may insist that calling last month's winner "Our Hero" is wrong, ~~but~~ ^{but} that it should be "Your Hero". Your Ed disagrees, after all, he's my hero too.
